

GRØNVEJ 2015-2017

Grønvej

Ude på områderne omkring Grønvej er vi midt i mosens hjerte. Det er et af mine yndlingssteder. Ofte tager jeg cyklen herud. Det er nu ikke meget, der bliver cyklet. For jeg er ikke mere end lige kommet i sadlen og sat i gang igen, før jeg må stoppe op og se og fotografere et eller andet interessant og unikt: En fugl på de store vidder eller et insekt i den rige vegetation langs vejen.

Førhen stod der masser af kvier og heste på marker langs grusvejen, men i dag er store områder udlagt til natur igen. Nu kan man om sommeren se tranerne spankulere rundt ude i horisonten. De er sky fugle og holder sig gerne på god afstand af vejens trafik af mennesker.

Rævene og rådyrene har i dag vænnet sig til, at de normalt ikke bliver udsat for jagt. Derfor har jeg ofte oplevet på tæt hold at iagttage de smukke dyr, mens de koncentreret fouragerer i den tætte vegetation.

Jeg har ofte været på cykeltur herude og oplevet, at tunge regnskyer har vist sig i horisonten. Det er et smukt syn. Her på den flade mose virker himlen så imponerende stor. Horisonterne ligger lavt og udsynet er enormt. Men der er pokkers langt hjem, hvis tordenvejret for alvor bryder løs, og det er ikke godt sted at befinde sig, når tordenvejret når frem.

Grønvej

Out in the areas around the dirt road Grønvej, we are in the heart of the bog, Lille Vildmose. It is one of my favourite places. I often take my bike out here. Though, not much biking gets done. Because no sooner have I gotten back in the saddle and started moving again before I must stop and look at and photograph something interesting and unique: A bird out on the wide-open spaces or an insect in the rich vegetation along the road.

In the past, there were plenty of heifers and horses in the fields along the gravel road, but today large areas have been returned to nature. Now, in the summer, you can see cranes strolling around on the horizon. They are shy birds and prefer to keep a good distance from the road's traffic of people.

These days, the foxes and deer have gotten used to not normally being hunted. That's why I often have had the chance to observe these beautiful animals up close while they forage intently in the dense vegetation.

Often, I have gone for bike rides out here and seen heavy rain clouds appear on the horizon. It is a beautiful sight. Out here on the flat bog, the sky seems impressively vast. The horizons are low, and the view is immense. But it is a damn long way home if a thunderstorm really breaks out, and it is not a good place to be when the storm reaches you.
