

The countryside

March 2017

by Keld Jensen

The countryside

The landscape in northern Scotland maintains a mosaic of small communities surrounded by large areas of moors and peatlands, lakes and rivers.

Everywhere the agriculture has found fit, but we also find many ruins of small farms that have long been abandoned. But it is ruins that, with its remaining walls of natural stone, greatly contribute to give the amazing scenery a touch of history.

Energy plants with wind power also leave their mark on these landscapes.

Thumbnails

Click on a thumbnail image
below to view it full size.

COLOPHON

The countryside

By Keld Jensen

PDF Version 1.0
Originally Published April 2017

All images and text © 2017 Keld Jensen