

The green Greenland

The short Arctic summer in Greenland: The beautiful mountains, the deep fiords, the glaciers and the icebergs on the ocean.

Once this is seen, then you have seen it all, maybe garnished with some whales, reindeers and musk oxen.

Nope! You have to experience the green Greenland! South Greenland.

Although we this year have had a severe drought, still there is everywhere green oases with shrubs and plants in the colours of summer: Vigorous green plants and in the largest town in South Greenland the gardens are filled with flowers of various colours.

The yellow flower is present everywhere - both in the settlements and around the sheep farms: The meadow buttercups.

Once the meadow buttercup has got a foothold in a garden, and the garden just in a short time is allowed to keep itself to itself, the flower spreads greedily to the whole garden.

Qaqortoq, South Greenland, August 2015