

The colour gamut of sunset

We find extremely many pictures of sunsets on the Internet: The sunset behind wonderful mountains. Sunset over a quiet, mirror bright sea.

This late afternoon I enjoy the sunset from the terrace of my house on the mountain in the town Qaqortoq in south Greenland. Shall I walk in and get the camera? Have I not photographed this scene over and over again?

I fetch the camera. Instead of focusing on the mountains or the lake, I choose to focus on the colour gamut, which the sunset creates in the sky above the mountains.

The result was an extremely simple photograph without any kind of frills!

*Qaqortoq,
December 2017*